Pastor's Column

August 16th, 2020

Me

Jesus Christ: Yesterday, Today, and Forever ~

On Monday, July 27, the first day of my summer vacation, I broke my leg. I was at Dougan Falls, a popular local watering hole (stunning) with a family of parishioners. I didn't slip, fall, or jump; I simply planted my left foot just right as my right foot naturally swung in front of me. The twisting motion in my left leg caused my tibia and fibula, the two lower leg bones, to snap above the ankle. Four days later, I had surgery to place two plates and eleven screws into my bones to put humpty dumpty back together again. I've been recovering well ever since. Thank you for your prayers and well wishes.

While certainly not wanted, this experience has been a real blessing for me and others in many ways. There is tremendous grace in offering up suffering, without complaining, especially when united to prayer. The suffering becomes a prayer and a powerful one at that. Multiple miracles have already happened, but it could have all been lost or wasted if I had chosen to begrudge the accident. From the moment I went down I was in God's hands and accepting of His will. This marks huge growth for me as years ago I am sure I would have begrudged this and complained to everyone who would have listened, losing any blessings that might have come from it. I've grown and I hope we all can. Life deals us lemons all the time, it is up to us whether or not we'll make lemonade out of them.

One of the surprises for me in this time was missing Mass. I went a whole week before I could make it to Mass and I found myself longing to go, that's not normal for me. When I say Mass I'm "on", like the energy a stage performer exudes when he does a one man play; except the dialogue (my lines) change daily and I have to come up with them no less (yikes), and I represent God to people (yikes), and lead a community of believers (yikes). The point is, there are lots of things about the Mass that cause me stress (I haven't even begun), so getting a break from Mass would seem to be a welcomed relief, but it wasn't. I found that I really wanted to be with God in the most intimate way possible and that is found at Mass.

I encourage you to return to Mass at Holy Redeemer. I know the Archbishop hasn't yet lifted the optional nature of going to Mass, and if you aren't going because you're afraid of the plague, then don't come; however, if you're the majority of Holy Redeemer parishioners who still haven't returned to Mass here for some other reason, then I ask you to reconsider.

Attending Mass is about honoring God first and foremost. It isn't about honoring us, it is about honoring God; the God who made us and suffered a terrible injustice to redeem us. Yet some people stay away from Mass because there is(are) some aspect(s) of it that they don't like or they know God doesn't like. For example, some people stay away from Mass because Archbishop Etienne has mandated reception of Holy Communion in the hand. These people believe as I do, that God prefers people to receive Holy Communion on the tongue. What's more, many of these people know that Church law allows people to receive on either the tongue or in the hand. So they figure that Archbishop Etienne has overstepped his authority; and since God prefers people to receive on the tongue, well, they will just not return to Mass until they can receive Holy Communion on the tongue, or travel across the river to receive on the tongue. But one way or another, they are not going to be obedient to what they see as an unjust decision on the part of the Archbishop.

This is very bad logic whether it is about this issue or others; it runs counter to the fact that God actually wants us at Mass, warts and all. A much greater injustice than not having Mass the way we want it, is God being crucified. The greatest injustice, anti-God thing of all time, is when man crucified God. Now Jesus (God) could have put a stop to all this but he didn't because by going through with it, a far greater good would come from it – our redemption. By me not complaining about my injury and accepting with peace my accident and all the limitations that will go along with it, grace from heaven pours out upon me and others. By all of us knocking the chip off our shoulders about all the injustices of our lives and embracing our crosses willingly without complaint, and offering that suffering up to God for some good-end, miracles happen. Return to Mass if you have been away because you don't like some change to the way Mass is now done as a result of the plague. Offer that frustration, injustice, up for some greater good like your sanctification and the sanctification of others. Remember, without obedience, there would be no Church and no grace. Obedience isn't virtuous when we agree with it, it's virtuous when it isn't evil, and we don't agree with it, and we are obedient anyway. Then the portals of heaven open up. It's not evil to receive Holy Communion in the hand, priests do every day; nor is it evil to sign up for Mass; or physically distance; or wear a mask. What is evil is our pride, and the enemy takes advantage of it all the time.

Back to my leg for a moment: as of this writing I expect to be in a cast until early October. I hope to resume presiding at Mass and concelebrating within a week or so, under special circumstances. I am so grateful that Fr. Martin has agreed to cover Masses throughout August, without him, there probably wouldn't be Mass here at this time. Pray for priests!

I Love You – Warts and All,

Fr. Thomas Nathe
